Atlantic Patrol Task (South)

A presença da Real Marinha Britânica no Atlântico Sul não é nada estranha, uma vez que eles têm um papel importante e permanente na defesa das Ilhas Falklands, reconquistadas em 1982 após a invasão argentina. As ambições inglesas, no entanto, são mais abrangentes do que apenas as Falklands, se estendendo ao bom relacionamento com o Brasil e aos países da costa ocidental da África. Durante a Páscoa, passou pelo Rio de Janeiro o Destróier Type 42 Batch 2 HMS Liverpool e a ALIDE visitou o navio e conversou com o seu comandante.
